[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Great Coal Sale.

NEW YORK, Aug 29—The great coal sale [illegible] at noon to-day at the Square which was [illegible]ly blocked with coal speculators. Buyers [illegible] all parts of the country are present and [illegible] reigns in the neighborhood [illegible] trucks and windows were filled with [illegible], while the actual buyers were congregated [illegible] a mass around the auction stand. A letter was [illegible] and the conditions of the sale and it was an[illegible] that it was perfectly bona fide without [illegible] the goods were offered for sale at [illegible] companies were represented but were not [illegible] in any way and would not attempt to [illegible] the market up; buyers could bid and rest as[illegible] their judgment was all they had to contend [illegible]. The Delaware and Lackawanna first offered [illegible] tons of coal, 5,000 tons of steamer coal was [illegible] and 1,000 tons sold for $3 per ton; the price [illegible] and then to $2 75 at which the balance [illegible]. Fifty thousand tons were then put [illegible] and were sold. The remainder [illegible] $2 20 to speculators, who bought at the sale [illegible] of eggbroken were sold at [illegible]. There was a decided manifestation [illegible] of buyers to wait until some made pur[illegible] and then beat the prices down. Purchasers [illegible] uncertain how far the market might [illegible] many waited expecting they would [illegible]. In many cases they were [illegible] tumbled during sale and then re[illegible] to be, and starting point as the supply be[illegible] 10,000 tons sold at $3 80 and then [illegible] at one jump to $5 90, and sold quickly. [illegible] Delaware and Hudson Canal Co.

[illegible], PA., Aug 29—Prices realized by the [illegible] of coal in New York were anxiously [illegible] by all engaged in the coal trade. Much [illegible] alarm was shown as prices were [illegible] expectation being that the sale [illegible] $3 50 per ton as the lowest [illegible] not be sustained. Coal operators say [illegible] it will compel them all to suspend [illegible] tolls and labor can be reduced [illegible] figure than at present with [illegible] them even with a general reduc[illegible] will hardly submit to lower [illegible] than now prevailing. The situation has a [illegible] k for the fall and winter trade. [illegible] was 110 000 tons Delaware and [illegible] known as Scranton coal. Ten thous[illegible] coal sold at $2 65 down to $2 70; [illegible] grate went at $2 85 to $2 60; 15 000 tons [illegible] at $2 80 and went down to $2 75 and then [illegible] 40 000 tons stove started at $3 65 rapidly [illegible] $3 55 and then recovered to $3 62½. [illegible] went off at $2 50 to $2 75. The [illegible] tons of Philadelphia and Reading [illegible] company coal. Only 75,600 tons were [illegible] by barge or boat, the [illegible] at Port Richmond. Seventy five thous[illegible] were put up and 50,000 tons egg went [illegible] 25,000 tons of the same started at $2 60 [illegible] to $2 62½, then declined to $2 50 at [illegible] the balance was bought up. 35 000 tons [illegible] at $3 20, went to $3 22½ and ad[illegible] 10,000 tons [illegible] sold for $2 20. [illegible] give an idea of the prices. Besides [illegible] given there were 200 000 tons sold [illegible] from $2 to $3 80 according to [illegible] of purchasers. The tumble [illegible] per ton on all grades. The bid[illegible] was spirited. It is said that other [illegible] will follow.

[illegible] still Fluctuating.

[illegible]ORK, Aug 29—On Wall street this after[illegible] shares fluctuated 1@1½ per cent, others only 1@1½. In late dealings, coal shares [illegible] due in part to the fact the prices at the sale which showed a decline at the be[illegible] of $1 [illegible] per ton rallied about $1 per [illegible] was an active demand for coal.

The Washington Monument Surrendered to the Government.

CHICAGO, Aug 28—The Washington Monument Society which under a charter from Congress now holds possession of the unfinished shaft here and everything relating thereto had a meeting to day to consider the Congressional appropriation of $200 000 and the provisions imposed. The Society decided to give a transfer deed to the government relinquishing possession of the monument and its surroundings. They signed a document to that end addressed to the American people to be issued in a few days calling on them to aid the government by continuing their subscription to the monument, thus sharing the honor of finishing the work. The officers of the Society say there was great hope that the Masons Odd Fellows and other societies would aid materially the work and think much will be done by them. The monument has thus far cost $230 000 and is only about one third done. The society has now over $10 000 and a quantity of material memorial stones etc. As soon as the transfer is effected thorough examinations will be made of the foundations of the structure by a board of engineers and the work will be immediately resumed.

Swindle Unearthed.

The Tribune's Washington special says the examination by the Indian office, of the question pending between North Carolina and the Western Cherokees, has led to the unearthing of a Democratic swindle extending through three administrations and amounting to over $6,000 000. The money stolen was appropriated by Congress at various times in connection with the removal of the Cherokees from North Georgia and vicinity, to the Indian Territory. A good portion of the money appropriated under the treaty of removal went into the hands of those in the Democratic ring who [illegible] the affair, and who, through the administrations of Polk, Pierce and Buchanan, continued to press claims, insert bills and secure appropriations for expenses incurred in the removal. Where the actual cost of removal in many cases was only $20 per head from $150 to $200 was charged and in the bills for the removal a fictitious number of Indians was submitted and allowed. The investigation thus far involves a number of Democratic politicians of the administrations named and has shown that the money stolen outright was not less than $6,000,000.

ANOTHER MAN WHO KNEW SITTING BULL (BISON) AT WEST POINT

[Correspondence Richmond (Va.) Dispatch.]

During the summer of 1852 I met him in New Mexico. He had joined the Gila Apache Indians, had been adopted into the tribe, and had with him a wife or two from among the squaws. At this meeting he declared he would never forget or forgive the injustice and injuries he conceived he had received from his classmates and the academic authorities at West Point.

If Bison McLean is living he is 49 or 50 years old. In character he is strong and rugged. His nature is untamed and licentious, his courage superb, and his physical qualities almost herculean, except in size. He is fair complexioned, light colored hair, very full bearded, and hairy bodied man, with a large head and bold irregular full face. His height is about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches, and 24 years ago he would have weighed about 175 or 180 pounds.

When a cadet there was no disguise he would not assume and no hazard he would not venture for the gratification of his appetites. He never used strong drink when I knew him, and notwithstanding the great circumspection and vigilance of West Point authority he thwarted it until the very end of his career at that institution, and was then brought to grief by the testimony of his own classmates against whose watchfulness he had perhaps taken no precaution. Such a man after near 30 years' experience among the savages might well fill the position of Sitting Bull.

While he was a cadet under the cloak of a false marriage, he ruined a pretty girl, Effie Conklin, who lived at Buttermilk Falls, a mile or two below West Point.

SITTING BULL NOT BISON.

Huntsville (Mo.) letter to the St. Louis Republican.

You copy an article from the Baltimore Gazette identifying, or attempting to identify, Sitting Bull as Bison, a graduate of West Point, and asking for information concerning Bison. The incidents of the life of Bison whose real name was Thomas Freeman McLean, from the time of his entering West Point up to the time of the interview with Lieutenant Ives, on the Colorado as related by the writer of the article are correct. Bison as he was known at West Point, was born and raised in this Randolph county. He was of highly respectable parentage. A nephew of John McLean once a United States Senator from Illinois and brother of Louis M. McLean, a prominent citizen of this county. He entered West Point about the year 1846 and I think graduated in the class of which Stonewall Jackson was a member. He (Bison) was killed by Indians near Tubac, Arizona, about the year 1860. A gentleman then living in Tucson, Arizona, who had formerly lived here and who knew Bison here and there informed his relatives of his death and sent them what money he left. Lieutenant Hall of the fifth cavalry who was with Crook in Arizona and is now with him and who is well acquainted with Bison's relatives here confirms the statements received by his relatives of his death and the manner of his death.

Of Bison I suppose it may be said that his greatest fault was that of having an ungovernable temper which he knew and which no doubt, led him to pass his life beyond the confines of civilization.

It was through the influence of Senator Benton that he received the appointment as a cadet to West Point though his father (Louis McLean) was a zealous Whig. But certain it is that he is not Bison.

Those Anonymous Letters—Gen. Williams Interviewed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 29—The Post this afternoon publishes an interview with ex-Attorney General Williams and wife, with relation to the celebrated anonymous letters received by members of the Cabinet at Washington, the authorship of which has been charged to Mrs Williams.

In reply to inquiry if he could throw any fresh light on the subject, General Williams said, No. I have nothing to say more than already has been made public. The charge is as absurd as it is infamous. Circumstances and the character of the letters would alone be sufficient to indicate that neither Mrs Williams nor any other lady or indeed any other person than a frequenter of the vilest class of society could have written them. Mrs W herself was the recipient of many of these letters, but they were of such indecent and scandalous character that she did not at the time care to wantonly insult the aspersed ladies by showing them the letters, nor will she allow them to be published now.

But if Mrs Williams received these letters how is it that a charge could ever have been made against her that she was the author of other similar ones? No opportunity was given me or my wife, to make any statement in the matter and it was not until after I had resigned from the Cabinet that we heard a word of this outrageous charge and then there was added to it the statement that it was because of these letters that the President desired my resignation.

Has the President ever signified his opinion of the stories in circulation? Before my departure from Washington, he expressed to me his utter disbelief in any of the stories against Mrs Williams and characterized the version of the cause for my resignation as an infamous lie. Since my arrival here I have noticed in the papers that the President has given publicity to the same opinion.

At this juncture Mrs. W herself entered the room and learning the reporter's business, joined in the conversation.

Perhaps Mrs Williams you could tell the public something new about these letters? No. I can do nothing but publish the letters received by myself, and that I will not do because they contain slanderous statements against ladies in Washington and, though ever so absurd and ridiculous, if once published, as in the case of the unfounded and unproven charges against me, they would obtain credence.

Have you no idea, Gen W, of the author or object of these letters? The object, doubtless, was to make trouble generally in the cabinet, and I have no doubt that the author of the letters and the instigator of these infamous charges belong to the same ring. I shall make no charge now, but I shall investigate the matter to the bottom, and having got my facts I will vindicate myself and punish the culprit. I have no care for myself, for I made up my mind long ago that as a public man I must be a mark for anybody to shoot at, but it is outrageous that my wife's name should be dragged in. It is extremely difficult to grapple with a charge so secretly fabricated and none the less so that it is so very improbable.

Do you suspect anybody in particular? I do of course. My position as Attorney General and my method of dealing impartially with everyone alike has made me many enemies and among them some more bitter than others, who have not hesitated to strike at me in this underhand and nefarious manner.

CHIEF JOSEPH INTERVIEWED

REPORT OF A POW WOW BETWEEN COL. H. CLAY WOOD AND CHIEF JOSEPH AND HIS BROTHER YOUNG JOSEPH RESPECTING THE POSSESSION OF WALLOWA VALLEY AND OTHER MATTERS.

The following is the report of an interview with Chief Joseph and other chiefs of the Nez Perce Tribe respecting the possession of Wallowa valley, the killing of an Indian and other matters. The report is directed to Gen O O Howard under date of August 1st. Col Wood says:

In the preparation of the report, dated January 8 1876 on "The Status of Young Joseph and his band of Nez Perce Indians etc." I became interested in this tribe and its affairs to the extent not only of wanting to facilitate and see a peaceful, just, speedy and permanent settlement of any differences between the government and Young Joseph, but also of possessing a strong desire for further information of this remarkable tribe of Indians and their country.

In this spirit and in anticipation of orders to proceed to Fort Lapwai, Idaho Territory, on the 2d ultimo I addressed a letter to the agent of the Nez Perces stating that I contemplated visiting Fort Lapwai and requesting him to notify Young Joseph if in the vicinity of the agent that I would like an interview with him if he felt so disposed, and would meet me about the middle of July at the agency.

The unjustifiable killing by a white man, Finley, on June 23d last in Wallowa valley, of an Indian of Young Joseph's band operated as a further strong inducement to obtain an early interview with this chief with the view to prevent any conflict between the Indians and whites as a result of this murder.

Having proceeded to Fort Lapwai under the provisions of Special Orders No. 89, paragraph 4 and No 90 paragraph 2 current series, I availed myself of the opportunity thus presented to gratify my desire and at the same time if practicable, further the public interests.

Learning that Joseph was in that vicinity and desired to see me I arranged a meeting with him and other Nez Perces for Saturday, the 22d ultimo, at 2 o'clock P. M. Colonel David Perry 1st Cavalry, commanding Fort Lapwai, Assistant Surgeon Jenkins A. Fitzgerald U. S. Army and Lieutenant Colonel William R. Parnell, 1st Cavalry, accompanied me to the Nez Perce Agency, where we were met by the Indian Agent, Mr. John B. Monteith.

THE FIRST POW WOW

On entering the council room I found some forty Indians already assembled and seated mostly reservation or treaty Indians. There were present Reuben (Tip-u-la-lai) principal chief of the Nez Perce nation, James Moses, sub chief, and several headmen. Of the non-treaties, Young Joseph (Wal-lam-mute-kint), a younger brother, (Oll-la-cut), and some half dozen others. Young Joseph retains the Indian name of his father, and his brother bears the Indian name of his grandfather, a Cayuse chief, but among the whites these two Indians are known and recognized by the names Joseph and Young Joseph, and in referring to them I shall make use of these English names.

A formal introduction and shaking of hands followed which ceremony was succeeded by a period of silence, during which each party was apparently studying the countenances and physical characteristics, and estimating the mental calibre, of individuals in the other.

James Reuben, a young Nez Perce of good appearance, son of Reuben, chief of the nation, was the interpreter.

The following is a synopsis of the "talk," prepared subsequent to the interview by Lieutenant Colonel Parnell, as amended by my own recollections of the conversation.

Colonel Wood requested the agent to inform the Indians that he was the writer of a little pamphlet concerning the Nez Perce nation, that he had become very much interested in them and their affairs, and would hear anything they had to say, particularly from Joseph, concerning the recent killing of one of his band by whites in Wallowa valley.

Joseph beginning his speech with the customary formal and complimentary phrases, addressing himself to Colonel Wood as "my friend," said that he had heard he was coming, that he had waited several days for his coming but that he was now glad to see him, that it was true one of his brothers had been killed by whites in Wallowa valley; that the Indian who was killed was much respected by the tribe, and was always considered a quiet, peaceable well disposed man, that the whites who killed him were bad, quarrelsome men and the aggressive party; that the whites in the valley were instigated by those in authority, and others in Grand Ronde valley to assault and injure the Indians while fishing and hunting in that section of country, that he wished the white who killed the Indian brought to the agency, to be there confronted with his accusers. Joseph said that among the Indians the chiefs controlled the members of their bands and had power to prevent bad Indians from doing wicked things, and in case of their so doing to punish them and if the chiefs did not restrain or punish bad Indians they themselves were responsible for their bad acts, and he reasoned that those in authority over the whites had, or should have, the same control over their men and hence the white authorities in the vicinity of Wallowa valley and elsewhere were directly responsible for the killing of his brother; that his brother's life was of great value, that it was worth more than the Wallowa valley, that it was worth more than all this country, that it was worth more than all the world; that the value of his life could not be estimated; nevertheless, that now since the murder had been done since his brother's life had been taken in Wallowa valley, his body buried there, and the earth there had drank up his blood, the valley was more sacred to him than ever before, and he would and did claim it now as a recompense for the life taken; that he should hold it for himself and his people from this time forward forever and that all the whites must be removed from the valley.

Col. Wood stated that the whites who killed the Indian could not be brought to the agency, but that by the law of the country they must be tried for their crime by the court having jurisdiction in the vicinity of the locality where the crime was committed—probably the town of Union—and that the witnesses, Indians or others, would be summoned by the authorities to appear and give their evidence, and referred to a letter which had been sent by General Howard to Judge Brainard at Union to this effect, that he would cause the arrest of the whites Finley and McNall who killed the Indian of Joseph's band and bring them to trial therefor; that General Howard and himself would do all in their power to have these men punished if guilty; that among the whites those in authority did not have immediate control over the persons of individual members of society to prevent or arbitrarily punish for, misdeeds; that each individual was personally responsible for his acts; that offenders were reached and punished by the law, and therefore direct responsibility for the killing of his brother did not attach to those in authority among the whites as to the chiefs of tribes or bands of Indians as explained by Joseph. Colonel Wood then stated to Joseph that General Howard in forwarding a copy of his pamphlet had recommended to the authorities at Washington to have a commission of five distinguished men appointed at an early day to confer with Joseph and his band, and hear all they had to say upon the subject of Wallowa valley and their differences with the government and if possible effect a settlement; that no answer had been received from Washington but he expected an answer very soon and wished to know if Joseph would like to meet such a commission if one should be sent out.

Joseph replied that he would consider this matter.

Young Joseph spoke almost to the same purpose as his brother except that he did not want the whites Finley and McNall tried and punished for their crime but wished them to leave that section of country that he might never see them more and in addition said that the whites in the Wallowa valley were furnished arms and ammunition by one "Smith," a bad white man, for the purpose of assaulting the Indians while hunting and fishing in their own country. He wished the white settlers to remove from the valley and to give up the land to the Indians.

Colonel Wood asked Joseph if the boundaries of the land claimed by them embraced simply Wallowa valley, or were they those of the reservation as fixed by the executive order of June 1873?

Young Joseph said he had made a map of their claim and when asked if he would produce it he replied no; he would show it to-morrow, perhaps.

Colonel Wood explained that the settlers and local authorities had no authority to give up this land to the Indians, and it was the object of the commission requested by General Howard to arrange with Joseph and his band a permanent settlement of this question of his claim to Wallowa valley. Colonel Wood referred to his pamphlet and asked Joseph if he would tell him when his father Old Joseph, died, where he was buried, and where he was born.

Joseph said he died in and was buried in Wallowa valley. To the remainder of the question he made no response.

Reuben, the chief of the reservation Indians, wished to say that he had complaints to make; that the treaty stipulations had not been kept by the whites; that while he and his people had faithfully adhered to their part of the written agreement, he had not received one-half of the annuities, &c, that had been promised, that he had given up his lands and come to live on the reserve but never had received anything in recompense for the lands surrendered, in violation of the written agreement as stipulated in the treaty. Something to the same effect was said by another old Indian from the reserve corroborating what Reuben had said.

Colonel Wood said that his business on this occasion was principally concerning Joseph and his band of the non treaty Indians, but that if the commission spoken of was sent out its members would undoubtedly hear all complaints that Reuben and others might have to make.

Colonel Wood asked if Joseph would like to meet him to-morrow at Fort Lapwai, and he replied yes, the time appointed being at sunset.

The meeting then broke up, the Indians manifesting much satisfaction at having seen and heard Colonel Wood.

THE SECOND INTERVIEW.

At 6.30 P. M. on the 23d ultimo, the Indians had gathered at the adjutant's office, Fort Lapwai, where they were soon after joined by Colonel Wood and the officers of the garrison. Reuben, James, Moses, Joseph and Jas. Reuben, the interpreter, were present. Seats were provided, and there was the usual greeting by shaking hands.

When requested, Young Joseph produced his map. It was a crude but quite accurate sketch, drawn on paper with pencil, of the section of country embracing the Grande Ronde, Wallowa and Im-na-ha rivers: all of which, together with additional land not shown on the map, was claimed by the brothers. The area indicated on this map is much larger than that of the reservation as established by the executive order of June, 1873, which contained 912,000 acres. This sketch (and another also by Young Joseph) was covered with the usual Indian pictures representing whites, Indians and Indian women, animals, guns etc., intended to depict the scene and actors in the killing of the Indian, and other matters. They were a kind of historical painting of that event. Colonel Wood requested permission to have the map copied, but the request was refused, and the sketches were returned to Young Joseph.

Colonel Wood called Joseph's attention to his question of yesterday relative to Joseph's father, and asked when he died. The answer was returned, five years ago, and don't know where his father was born?

Joseph asked if his friend wanted to know himself, or did somebody else want to know. Joseph wanted to know how Colonel Wood came to write the pamphlet, was he induced to write by some one else, and if so, who; or did he write it of his own motion, and for what purpose. Who told Colonel Wood about the tribe?

Colonel Wood said he did [illegible] the information to correct or verify statements in the pamphlet, and briefly explained the object of the preparation of the pamphlet, that all reports made by officers were filed at Department headquarters, that at Portland there was a library containing many books—books written about Indian tribes, the Nez Perces included, that he had consulted these sources and gained information; also from the reports of Lewis and Clarke, and General Alvord, and by correspondence with former superintendents Palmer, Hale, etc, and from other authorities named in the pamphlet.

Young Joseph said that he had other things to say; that if he had to tell about his father—where he was born, etc, it would take a long time, that he would like to tell about those things, but his mind is now upon other things, that some other time he would tell about his tribe; that he had been sitting a long time without speaking and would let other Indians have their "talk," and then he might say something.

Old Billy (Hah-hahs-tue-ta), spoke of the treaty of 1855; at time of treaty of 1855, other tribes of Indians were assembled, and that he was there also; all of these were chiefs of different tribes and were there to make treaty, and he had heard and knew all about it, the commissioners spoke to them right, so did the Indians. Had many interpreters, both whites and Indians, and knew it was right, they were promised by commissioners to be paid for their land, the head chief of the Nez Perces said that any land not occupied by said tribe was given to the government at that time by treaty, government promised shops, school houses, &c, and to help them generally to cultivate land, in 1863 also had "talk" on lands, that chiefs had agreed to give up certain lands, but he himself was opposed to it [Among the names signed to the treaty of 63 appears Hah hahs tues-ta.] but was long anxious to have government fulfill treaty of 1855; the treaty of 1855 was in part settled but not that of 1863; we want to see what the treaty of 1863 is coming to; we see whites taking away our land in violation of said treaty, and no pay for it and would like to know who we are to hold responsible for this—whether the government, or the whites now on the land; what he had sworn to had been fulfilled, but not so on part of the whites; he hoped commissioners will be sent from Washington and be honest men.

Reuben asked what Lieutenant Colonel Parnell was doing, and Colonel Wood informed him he was taking notes of the Indians speeches. Reuben then said he approved of taking notes of what was said but doubted if anything had ever been reported at Washington as they never hear anything from any reports ever made. The treaty in 1855 he had no part in, but that of 1863, after the treaty of 1855, understood that all this land was theirs; then went on his own farm and hoped to build a town on the site of Lewiston; built three houses there and worked hard. On treaty of 1863 agreed to give up this land at Lewiston but found that annuities were not paid; promises were not kept; that he came on reserve and worked hard on farm etc, without any aid from Government.

Colonel Wood believed most of what Reuben said was true but that Reuben should recollect that at the time of the treaty of 1863 the Government was carrying on an extensive war in the East; but that since its close the Government had had ample time to fulfill the treaty stipulations.

Another Indian—That is what we all think; we know it is hard for Government to fulfill their treaty of 1855. He and Reuben had often spoken of these things but had never heard from what had been said; wishes that what is now said may go before Congress; that he and his children will always keep the treaty before them he had signed it, and desires that commissioners be sent so as to come to final understanding and live peaceably forever.

Reuben remarked, Craig said if Reuben would keep guard round him they should receive the pay etc. of white soldiers—this before treaty of 1855, when war was going on with other tribes, about time of Whitman massacre and he will require pay for that service. Mr Chase and Cain knew of what I say.

Captain John said Old Joseph signed [illegible] of 1855 land was set aside, afterwards Mr. Hale made another treaty. Old Joseph had nothing to do with treaty of 1863, and [illegible] two young men have a claim and speak for their own land; the whites have killed an Indian on their own land and must speak for it.

Sub chief James Moses speaks as to his[illegible]ter: I will say to General Howard, w[illegible] commissioners are sent from Washington, we [illegible] be notified beforehand, so as to prepare [illegible]selves and meet them as a tribe. I and [illegible]ben have been elected, and have never engaged in such business, and will for the time be in council with commissioners wh[illegible] they come from Washington.

Young Joseph said: I want you to tell what the whites did when they first [illegible] this country, did they make t[illegible] Indians, and then afterwards [illegible] other lands? and all about the [illegible] and treaties since then.

His question was of [illegible] seemed to desire an [illegible] and full [illegible] of the different treaties with the vari[illegible] and of the action taken by the gov[illegible] regarding those tribes and in rela[illegible] stipulations of the various treaties.

EVIDENCE IN CRIMINAL CASES.

A correspondent, whose letter we publish in another column, inquires whether it would not be advantageous to amend the laws of evidence so as to permit defendants in criminal cases to testify for themselves, and wives to testify for their husbands and husbands for their wives in criminal cases.

The case of a defendant testifying for himself and that of a wife testifying for her husband or a husband for his wife, are not alike and cannot be considered together. The former case involves not much more than the simple questions whether the ascertainment of truth is likely to be benefited and whether the interest of the defendant demands it, and the second directly affects the wellbeing of society.

The question whether a defendant should be allowed to testify for himself in any case is one about which there have been and are various opinions. It was first broached when Lord Brougham instituted his movement for law reform some fifty years ago in England. Prior to that time no defendant either in a civil or criminal case could testify for himself, nor was any one who had a material interest in the result of the case allowed to give evidence. Even now in England a defendant is prohibited from testifying in his own favor in a criminal case. In some States of the Union the English rule is done away with so far that any defendant may testify whether in a criminal or civil case. Such is the rule in California.

The rule has its advantages and disadvantages. In one aspect we can see little difference whether the case be a criminal or a civil one, beyond the fact that in [illegible] the temptation to commit perjury is stronger than in others. The reason for the rule prohibiting the testimony of defendants in their own behalf was twofold—first, that the testimony is so likely to be colored and influenced by the interest of the witness in the result of the case as to be unworthy of credence, and secondly, that such testimony is likely to mislead the jury, and should therefore be withheld from them. But juries are now much more intelligent and capable of weighing, sifting and estimating the value of testimony than formerly. Education and intelligence are more generally disseminated and there has been a growing opinion that juries can safely be trusted with all the facts and circumstances, all the testimony, in any case. Hence the law as far as it concerned civil cases has generally been amended so as to admit the testimony of interested persons and defendants in civil cases. Now the temptation to commit perjury may be greater in some civil cases, where perhaps millions may be involved, or the bulk of the witness' property, than in a criminal case where, perhaps, the penalty, if the defendant should be found guilty, would be only a fine of a few dollars. Besides, the jury is certainly as able to judge of the probability, or improbability of the testimony in a criminal case as in a civil case. Hence there does not appear to be any serious objection so far to permitting defendants to testify for themselves in criminal cases.

But there are other considerations which affect the defendants themselves, and which make the propriety of such a law doubtful. A law allowing defendants in criminal cases to testify, would make it optional with them whether to do so or not. If they did so, the jury would receive their evidence subject to all that would affect its credibility growing out of the desire of the defendant to make a good defense for himself, and would take it with a great many grains of allowance. But if the defendant should refuse to go upon the stand the inevitable assumption, by the jury, would be that he feared to do so; that he was guilty, and that he was unable to say anything in his own favor that would stand the test of a rigid examination. Hence the existence of such a law would, it might work very harmfully against a defendant. It would place him in a position in which he would be obliged to testify—to commit unwilling perjury—or to remain silent and suffer from an assumption that no human jury could avoid making, and which would influence any verdict they could render. It does not seem just to enact a law which could have such an effect. It seems to be injurious to good morals to place such a temptation before men who usually are the least capable of resisting temptation. On the other hand it is urged that if a defendant were permitted to speak he could often—[illegible] conclusively prove his innocence of the charge on which he stands indicted, and that it is right to give him a chance to do so. If it were possible to make laws which involved no hardship, only such laws should be enacted; but since that is beyond the skill of human intelligence, the community must be satisfied with those that approach most nearly to perfection, even if they do not attain it. It is easier to see defects in laws than to correct them. If in the present case it should appear that greater hardship would be inflicted upon defendants by the want of a law allowing them to testify, than otherwise, such a law ought to be enacted While we think the defendant would hardly be better off, still there is a question in our mind about it.

As for the second case—the testimony of wives for husbands, and of husbands for wives in criminal cases—we have no doubt whatever of the propriety and wisdom of the law as it now stands. The confidences between wives and husbands, lawyers and clients, priests and penitents, should be sacred and inviolate. Except in divorce cases and cases in which the wife is seeking safety for life or person from the misdeeds of her husband, she should not be allowed to go upon the stand to speak for or against him. If it were allowed, her testimony, from fear or affection, would invariably be in his favor; or, if she spoke against him, whether voluntarily or, under the pressure of cross-examination, unwillingly, the happiness of the marital relation would be imperilled, if not absolutely destroyed. These considerations are, also, equally pertinent in the case of a husband whose wife is a defendant. Neither should be placed in so terrible a situation. The experience of all time proves the wisdom of this law and nothing but harm and the destruction of the nearest and most precious relations in life could result from its abrogation.

The condition of affairs in the South appears from the dispatches to be most distressing. Both whites and blacks are alleged to have broken the peace in a very discreditable manner. In the case of the Vicksburg riot the whites show a degree of intolerance which we had hoped did not exist among them. Such a course as that adopted by the opponents of Hayes and Wheeler will be productive of no benefit to them as it will make more voters for the Republican candidates in the North than it will drive off in the South. Insult and violence are poor substitutes for logic and reason. We had hoped that the wise counsels of Col. Lamar would have been better heeded in his native State. In the Monroe, Louisiana, case, the negroes were the offenders. It is impossible to say what cause impelled them to the commission of that wicked and cowardly act. Even there the motive is unknown. It is vaguely hinted that a row at a public meeting is at the bottom of the affair, but what that was is not told. But whatever the cause, there is no excuse for deliberately assailing the planters' houses and putting their lives in jeopardy. That is not the way to gain the sympathy of the nation for wrongs endured, if there were such; or to prove themselves fit for the exercise of the right of self-government. Murder and mob law are justifiable under no circumstances, whether committed by whites at Hamburg or by negroes at Monroe.

The work on the Brooklyn bridge is progressing slowly but surely. The working ropes are stretched across the river and the task of putting in place the great cables which are to hold up the bridge will soon commence. These cables will be sixteen inches in diameter, composed of steel wires, coated with an anti-corrosive preparation, and capable of sustaining a much greater load than they will ever be called upon to bear. They are now being manufactured in New Jersey.

The Centennial boat races on the Schuylkill are now being contested. The London Rowing Club crew are greatly praised for the perfection of their style. They won the race in which they were entered.

TILDEN AND THE ST. L., A. & T. H. RAILWAY.

Mr. Tilden has good reason to complain of his abandonment by Democratic editors and orators in the matter of the St. Louis, Alton and Terra Haute railroad. They carefully avoid reference to its details, make no attempt to discuss its merits, and merely allude to it in vague and unsatisfactory terms. They speak of the "fullness" of his reply and that is all. But verbosity is no proof of purity, and only in the sense of wordiness can the reply be considered full.

Indeed the absence of moral sense revealed by Mr. Tilden's elaborated plea is one of its most extraordinary features. There had been faithless trustees before, and they will have imitators as long as the law acquits them of criminal liability and facilitates all manner of dilatory maneuvers in the interest of rascality. Seldom has it happened, however that a professional man, called upon to account for large amounts of securities which have disappeared without the knowledge of the stockholders of the company issuing them, has shown himself so insensible to the dictates of conscience and duty as Mr. Tilden in his reply to the plaintiff's case. Ordinarily a culprit caught in some flagrant act stammers out an attempt at exculpation. The "reform candidate" for the Presidency does nothing of the kind. He is required to tell in detail how three-quarters of a million have been disposed of, and how does he meet the demand? If all was straightforward, he would have no difficulty in proving where every dollar went, and under what authority and for what purpose it was paid. Mr. Tilden does not pretend to give an account. He denies the right of the victimized stockholders to seek it. He reminds them that under the plenary authority he and his associates acquired, they might have made the overissue many times larger than it was. In fact, he appears to take credit for the moderation he displayed when his hands were in the company's treasury. This aspect of the case should alone be fatal to his reputation in respect of matters of trust, for it exhibits him as one insensible to the nicer shades of honesty and honor, and oblivious to all forms of fiduciary responsibility save those which the law may enforce. The same low standard of duty is apparent in the allusions to the subject which occasionally find their way into Democratic prints. So long as Mr. Tilden can manage to escape the grip of the law, we are asked to regard him as upright and pure. As the ideal of a keen, unscrupulous "railroad lawyer," this view might pass. As applied to a candidate for the Presidency, it should be enough to secure his condemnation.—N. Y. Times.

THE SHYSTER STATESMAN.

(Mr. Curtis in Harper's Monthly.)

The thoroughbred politician of a low type—that is, our friend the shyster-statesman—undoubtedly despises, with all the sincerity of which he is capable, the demand of honesty, decency and fair play in politics. His tactics consist of retorts in kind. If a damaging charge is brought against any fellow-partisan, he levels one, false or true, against some member of the other side. He sneers persistently at the suggestion of patriotic and impersonal motives. If opposition to the "regular" party decree is manifested by any one of the brethren, his instinctive remark is, "What does he want?" His sole reliance is upon what he calls the party strength, not upon the patriotism or the intelligence of the people. His conclusive argument is, that the other side is worse than his own. His exhaustive theory of politics is, that it is a mere question of the comparative foulness of pot and kettle. Politics, indeed, as we know, often compels a choice of evils. But to accept this as a final situation is absurd. The history of political parties shows that great steps of progress have been made when a body of partisans have, so to speak, taken the bull by the horns, and have decided to make a choice of evils in a startling manner by promoting the present defeat of their side as the only way of securing an ultimate victory. This was done thirty years ago in the State of New York, when a certain number of the whole whig party, although more than ever hostile to the opposing party, decided that the lesser evil of the situation was an opposition success. This was a startling choice of evils. But the political student can hardly think that the decision was an unwise one. The shyster statesman cannot, of course, comprehend that a man should ever say that the pot and the kettle are both too black for him, and that he will on the whole, take a fresh and shining pan. If he be a polite, the shyster of his party shows him that, in such an attempt, he will merely abandon the pot without getting the pan, and that the kettle will gloriously triumph. If the recusant should reply that he sees no other way of ever reaching an era of brighter hardware, the good shyster answers him with vehemence that he is a condemned, impracticable fool; have done so much of the best work of this extraordinary world.

HOW DOM PEDRO ASCENDED BUNKER HILL MONUMENT.

(Boston Commercial Bulletin.)

The janitor who had charge of Bunker Hill monument, arriving at about half-past 7 Friday morning to open the premises, found two strangers in waiting. One, a tall, gray-bearded man in a slouch hat, asked if they could ascend the monument.

"Yes," said the custodian, "you can for twenty-five cents" (holding out his hand).

The strangers produced the money, and the custodian unlocked the door and forthwith commenced sweeping out, raising a cloud of dust, and paying no especial attention to his visitor, who was looking about him curiously, until half choked with dust, he inquired "if these were the steps."

"Yes, all right, go ahead, go right up till you get to the top."

The visitor and his companion did as they were bid, and stayed some half an hour enjoying the beautiful panoramic view from the summit, after which they descended, and were quietly walking away when they were hailed by the custodian with—

"H'yar, just write your names in this book: all the visitors who go up the monument sign their names here."

The gray bearded man laughed and signed his name, and the two departed.

The custodian never looked at the book, but some hours afterward was electrified by one of the officers of the Monument Association who chanced to come in, asking him in the most agitated manner, when Dom Pedro, the Emperor of Brazil, had been here.

"Hasn't been here at all," was the reply.

"Hasn't been here! Why, here is his signature on your visitor's book. What does this mean?"

"What?" said the custodian, rushing up to the volume. "Why, good gracious! that was written by a tall man with a slouch hat."

And so it was; but the tall man was the Emperor of Brazil, and this was the way he ascended Bunker Hill monument, just like "any other man."

The Seattle Tribune says: "The Swinimish farmers are cutting their grain with all the force at their command. The two big threshing machines, one steam and the other horse, are at work near Laconner, moving from farm to farm, and threshing daily in the nighborhood of 2,500 bushels. Barley is being cut first."

MAGNUM BONUM SHIRTS!

For sale by

FISHEL & ROBERTS,

Cor. First and Washington Sts.

THESE SHIRTS FULLY BEAR OUT THEIR name, and are regarded by all who have worn them to be par excellence of Shirts. The arrangement of making the Magnum Bonum, on which the Patent has been granted, is simply that of closing the side of the shirt all the way down to bottom of hem, and that of having the shirt opened in the center of the front and back about seven inches from the bottom hem. The undeniable advantages are briefly: It covers the legs and hips and does not work up uncomfortably, like an ordinary shirt: it always keeps its place, not only around the bosom but on the back: it does not contain any surplus material, and can be folded smoothly and laid away without creasing. It is the most convenient shirt for traveling by rail, carriage or horseback, because it works all the cloth downward in each drawer leg. It is manufactured from the very best material, and is bound to supersede all other styles of shirts in use.

A simple trial of this Shirt will prove to the wearer all that is claimed for it.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 30, 1876.

CITY.

QUICK WORK.—Smith Bros. having purchased the old penitentiary property have had a new floor laid in the main building, which is to be used hereafter as the machine shop, and have at present a large force of workmen engaged in remodeling and renovating the premises generally. Although it was but a week that they commenced moving into new quarters, they had their engine and most of their lathes and other tools in operation to-day. They are pushing things in a lively manner also, having everything ready to commence running as soon as the cupola is finished. The blacksmith shop being already in full blast, it will be but a short time before things are whirling in that heretofore quiet portion of the city. Success attend them.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.—The Board of Equalization for this county, consisting of the County Clerk, James A. Smith, Judge J. H. Woodward, and O. M. Barnard, the Assessor, are now in session, and will probably "grind" for some days. The object of the board is to review the assessment roll, equalize the assessor's work whenever necessary, and to receive the statement of those who claim a relief, upon proper and satisfactory showing. An opportunity is thus afforded all taxpayers who think they have been assessed too high to have their petitions heard, a privilege which they should not permit to pass by unheeded.

HARD AGROUND.—While on the way down the river with a full cargo, the barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg touched on the sands at St. Helens and could not be pulled off by the tug having her in tow. In addition to the usual cargo, the vessel had on a deck load of lumber, and was drawing 16½ feet when she grounded. Yesterday morning the Alice went down to get her off, and the Dockeye was brought alongside the barkentine and the lumber was being placed aboard to lighten her. When the Astoria came up yesterday the Portland was still there.

NEW BRIDGE.—Work on the new railroad bridge which is to span the Clackamas, is progressing finely. A large force of carpenters are busily engaged in framing the timbers and in getting them on the platform in East Portland. The timbers of the bridge as rapidly as they are conveyed to the place. A number of men are employed in building the piers, and a gang of graders are preparing the ground on each side of the stream.

A correspondent informs us that a person residing in the upper part of the city—giving the exact locality—is the owner in fee simple of a savage dog which bit a boy a few days ago, and asks for the suppression of the canine. Persons living in the southern end of the city who have such an animal should act upon the suggestion of the correspondent and kill the dog.

GONE OFF.—The large and handsome ship ... , which ran aground at the mouth of the Columbia, some time ago, and was, with considerable difficulty, got off, will now anchor off Fort Stevens. She will probably go to San Francisco and be put into the dry dock, when her hull will be examined. However, nothing is definitely known concerning the future movements of the vessel.

BRIEF NOTES.

Georgia minstrels this evening.

Up to 12 o'clock nothing heard of the Ajax.

Astoria line was prostrated yesterday above Kalama.

General Howard has returned from down the river.

Races next Saturday afternoon over the Riverside track.

The ship Titan is at present discharging ballast at Astoria.

The coast survey steamer Hassler passed to sea Monday, bound for San Francisco.

Chas. Hirstel & Co. have placed us under obligations for a lot of papers and periodicals.

After being repainted and overhauled, the steamer E. N. Cooke looks as neat as a new pin.

Mrs. Sherry's case was called in police court yesterday morning and continued until today.

The Albina ferry has been laid up for repairs, but will soon be making regular trips again.

The seventh year of the Independent German School will commence Monday September 4th.

Rev. John Rosenberg, who has been visiting the Sound on a pleasure trip, has returned to this city.

Puyallup valley will this year produce 700,000 pounds of hops. The market for the crop is California, Australia and England.

The report of a pistol which was accidentally discharged yesterday gave rise to the rumor that some fellow had killed his man.

We understand that the steamer Ohio will soon commence to make regular trips to points along the upper Wallamet in connection with the City of Salem.

The sawmill in East Portland has obtained the contract for cutting about 70,000 feet of lumber, which will be necessary to plank several of the streets in that municipality.

The defendant in the case of City vs. Mrs. Jeffery, tried in police court yesterday morning, was discharged, there being no evidence sufficient to warrant holding the same.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

OFFICE CLERK SCHOOL DISTRICT No. 1,
PORTLAND, Aug. 29, 1876.

At a meeting of the board of directors of said school district, held August 28th, it was ordered that the first meeting of the Teachers' Institute for the current school year be held at the Central school building, on the second Saturday in September, commencing at 9 o'clock A. M. All future meetings of the Institute will be held at the same place and time of day on the first Saturday of each month.

All teachers employed in the schools of said district are required to be present at the appointed time of each meeting.

GEORGE W. MURRAY,
Clerk of School District No. 1.

PERSONAL.

Hon. A. J. Lawrence, member of the State Legislature from Baker county, is now in the city en route for the capital. He is in a good state of preservation, judging from his looks.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Hodge, Calef & Co. have just received 2,000 boxes of window glass; sizes from 7x9 to 40x66. They are prepared to supply the trade to any limit.

Clothing sold at an immense reduction to make room for fall stock at Kohn's.

The improvement on the Wheeler & Wilson to prevent the oiling of the goods by the dripping of oil down the needle bar, is one of the improvements on the No. 8 which all ladies admire.

If you are going to Salem during the Legislature, wear the Magnum Bonum Shirt.

Take lunch to-day at Barnes' Central Market. Something nice.

One of the coolest spots in town is the "Fountain," where Peter Wilhelm holds forth. He keeps the best liquors and cigars, and Weinhardt's best beer. His billiard tables are excellent, and the "Virginius" pool table continues a favorite.

W. L. ADAMS, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. Is extraordinarily successful in treating female complaints.

Sore eyes speedily relieved. The worst form of piles cured, and the most malignant cancers eradicated root and branch without the use of the knife, or the money refunded.

NOTICE.—Mrs. S. Lord, First National Bank building, having abundantly proven her ability to produce a new crop of hair in all stages of baldness, also to check falling of the hair and itching of the scalp, would advise those intending to avail themselves of her treatment to do so without delay, as business will soon take her from the State for some time. Preparations sent to all parts of the country.

Our Sunday excursionists now carry the invaluable pocket companion, a Centennial Flask of Noble Whisky, and always arrive home as straight as the whisky they carry. Sold by H. Fleckenstein, 147 First street.

PLEASURE BOATS.

JOHN LACHAPELLE, Boat Builder, is prepared to furnish Boats for Sale or Rent at any moment. Boat-house Foot of Pine street.

FIRE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Immense Destruction of Property.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—The most extensive and disastrous fire of the year happened last night. It broke out at 11 o'clock on the corner of Brannan and Fourth streets, in a lot adjoining the German hospital, on the northwest of the block bounded by Fourth, Brannan, Third and Townsend streets. A fresh breeze sprang up at the time, from the northwest, blowing diagonally across the block. The fire developed so suddenly that several alarms were turned in simultaneously from different stations in the vicinity and the central office rang a general alarm. In an instant the whole night south of Market street was illuminated. The streets were clear of vehicles and presented no obstruction to the approach of the fire department and the wheels fairly struck sparks from iron rails as the engines and hose carts rushed down at great speed to the scene of the conflagration. The entire active force of the department was concentrated in an almost incredibly short space of time, and got to work without delay. By this time the fire was working with most alarming rapidity across the block to the southeast, and it soon became apparent that the buildings on the fractional streets, Ritch and Crooks, were doomed. The strong wind increased almost to a gale, and millions of flaming embers were carried across all the blocks toward the bay, lighting up the heavens with a storm of fire. The houses were all occupied by families, and many of the unfortunate people had in many instances no time to save a presentable wardrobe. The streets were soon filled with furniture and traps of households. The usual distressing groups of crying women and children were huddled in alleys and doorways. The whole city seemed to be out. There were at least twenty thousand people present. The fire broke out in the Pacific box factory, owned by Racouillat & Co., 581 Brannan street. It is supposed to have originated in the boiler room, from sparks igniting in the shavings. The four buildings adjoining on the east were occupied as a furniture factory, door, sash and blind factory, Excelsior sash factory, Haskell & Bode's factory, and Korbett Bros.' cigar box factory. All these were in a large two-story frame building, and filled with lumber, light timber, glue and oils. It was nothing but a tinder box, which made one immense bonfire, nearly 200 feet front and 275 feet deep. Next came Korbett's residence, a two-story brick, and then the German hospital. The flames spread so thick and fast that in twenty minutes after the alarm was sounded the Railroad House, a new frame on the north side of Brannan street, caught fire and was only saved from destruction by the most strenuous efforts of the firemen and citizens. Some half dozen dwelling houses on the north side of Brannan street were also very badly damaged by fire and water. The German Hospital, which succumbed to the flames, was situated on the south side of Brannan street, between Third and Fourth. It was a brick building, two stories high, with a basement, 112 feet front, 10 feet deep, with awning in the rear of 23 feet front, and 212 feet deep. It was well furnished in every respect. When the fire broke out there were between 60 and 70 patients in the building, all of whom were safely removed, some with great difficulty. Ten of the patients were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, and most of the others were taken in charge of by friends. The loss of the German Benevolent Society, who owned the building, will be $35,000, on which there is an insurance of $25,000. All possible assistance was rendered by citizens in saving property and human life. Dr. Regensberger, while the fire was at its highest, rushed into the building at the peril of his life, to save a large amount of valuable surgical instruments. It is impossible to give even an approximate list of the parties burned out, but a fair idea may be obtained from the estimate of dwellings burned on Brannan street. From the German Hospital to the corner of Third street ten dwelling houses burned down. On Ritch street, running from Brannan to Townsend, between thirty and forty buildings, occupied by poor families, were destroyed. On Crooks street, running from Brannan to Townsend, at least twenty dwelling houses gave way to the flames. On the west side of Third street twelve dwelling houses succumbed. On Townsend street quite a number of buildings were burned to ashes, so that 200 families were thrown out of their homes by this disastrous conflagration. The police department was out in force, all the regulars and a large force of specials being on the ground preserving order, saving and protecting property and controlling the immense crowds. Shortly before 1 o'clock the flames swept across Ritch street towards Third, and in a few moments some six or eight small cottages were in one blaze, and being of dry and light material, defied all efforts, and soon crumbled to a mass of smouldering ashes. The fire swept thence to the rear of the residences fronting on Third street, and beginning with a small grocery store on the corner of Townsend; this course was unchecked until the fire had reached the third house from the corner of Third and Brannan streets. On the west side, on Brannan street, the flames swept toward Third until they reached the house of L. B. Garrison, No. 411 Brannan street, where they were checked. At 2 A. M. the fire was under control. Owing to the intense heat and rapidity with which the flames spread, the great confusion and rushing to and fro of the owners and occupants of buildings, it was impossible to obtain any reliable information as to the loss, but it will not fall much below $500,000. The greatest loss will be on the factories, the German Hospital and railroad buildings.

The burnt district presents a busy scene this morning, being thronged with men, women and children, property owners, insurance adjusters, &c. Scarcely a vestige of the buildings is to be seen on the whole block, with the exception of portions of the brick walls of the German hospital, the brick engine-house of Recovillart's box factory, &c., and a few houses which partially survived the conflagration. The combustible nature of the neighborhood, and the fact that the whole interior of the block was closely built up with manufacturing establishments, &c., made the heat intense, and everything was swept with the above exceptions, and here and there a brick chimney looming up from a bed of ashes. The vicinity is still piled with furniture and household utensils, which expressmen are busy removing to new quarters. The work of removing the debris has already commenced, and rebuilding will begin at once. The German Benevolent Society owning the hospital are in a good financial condition, and while waiting the process of rebuilding will provide suitable accommodation for their patients. The proprietors of the various manufacturing establishments are also in position to resume business with the least possible delay. Without going into detail it appears that the property on the burnt district was generally insured to fair amount, the losses being well distributed among various companies, no one of which will probably suffer to the extent of over $25,000 or $30,000. It was at first supposed that a call upon the charity of citizens would be necessary to relieve the suffering of families who had lost their all by the fire; but inquiry shows that in the great majority of cases the losers are well able to take care of themselves. The furniture in houses consumed proves to have been mostly insured, and adjusters also find a good deal of salvage on that class of property. It was contemplated by Mayor Bryant to call a public meeting for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions for the benefit of the sufferers, but as appearances are much more favorable than at first supposed, action will be delayed until some intimation is received that such a step is necessary. The various manufacturing enterprises turned out employed in the neighborhood of 200 men, about one-third of whom were Chinese. It is difficult as yet to arrive at a correct idea of the losses or the insurance, but it is evident that the disaster is less than at first supposed. But few serious casualties are reported. It was said that a fireman named Stewart had broken his neck by a fall from a ladder and was instantly killed, but the report lacks confirmation, and no intimation of the fact has been received at the coroner's office. The losses will probably foot up between $300,000 and $500,000.

Boys Killed by a Falling Chimney.

About 5 o'clock this afternoon, as a number of boys were prowling about the scene of last night's fire engaged in gathering old iron, etc., a tall chimney, standing unsupported, was overturned by a gust of wind, falling in the midst of a group, and crushing two of them in the descent. One, named George Roden, was struck down, his skull fractured, and otherwise injured, probably fatally. Another, about ten years of age, name unknown, was completely buried under the falling mass. The workmen in the vicinity soon recovered the body crushed almost out of semblance to humanity. The remains were removed to the morgue for identification.

Henry Follet, a herder for Hooper Bros. of Umatilla county, who was on the eve of starting for Montana with 400 head of sheep, suddenly, and indeed, very mysteriously, disappeared about the 1st of August, and no clue as to his whereabouts can be ascertained, although search and inquiry have been made on every side.

Messrs. Frazer & Hackett, of Umatilla county, lost 65 head of splendid sheep out of a band of over 3,000 last week by a bear finding his way into the corral and causing a stampede, by which the above number were suffocated. The corral was on the side of a hill and the sheep tried to escape on the lower side; in doing so they piled up six or eight thick; hence the loss.

W. J. Snodgrass, secretary of the Union county agricultural society, informs the Sentinel that there is no doubt the fair this fall will "totally eclipse" any fair previously held in that county. He says: "I have letters from Walla Walla, Boise and Baker. All speak encouragingly of our coming fair. If money matters are not too close we will have the largest turnout ever seen in Union county."

Petitions are in circulation asking an appropriation of $10,000 by the legislature towards opening a wagon road, commencing at a point at or near the Big Island above Umatilla, and running thence on the nearest and most practicable route via the town of Weston to intersect and cross the Blue Mountains via the old route of the Thomas and Ruckle road to Summerville; thence on the nearest and most practical route to Baker City.

EVIDENCE IN CRIMINAL CASES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Would it not facilitate the administration of justice and prevent prosecution in criminal cases, if the law was so changed as to permit the defendant in criminal cases to testify for himself or herself. Would it not prevent many baseless and malicious criminal prosecutions from being brought before our justices of the peace?

Would it not be a benefit to the people of the State to have the law abolished which forbids a wife testifying for a husband, or a husband for a wife in a criminal case, and to pass a statute permitting them to give evidence as well in a criminal as a civil action? Would it not be a preventitive of a great amount of injustice done to innocent parties? Believing this to be a subject of great importance to every man, woman and child in this State, and in view of the early assembling of the Legislature, and with the hope that these questions will call forth a thorough discussion of their merits, and knowing of your accommodation in opening your columns to all correspondents, I ask the insertion of this article.

A meeting of farmers and others to take into consideration the question of petitioning the governor general to recommend the Dominion parliament to give the province a protective tariff, was held at Victoria last Monday.

The Colonist says On Tuesday and Wednesday night of last week there were severe frosts in the vicinity of Victoria, which cut down potatoes. It is thought that in early planted fields the damage will not be great but late potatoes are badly injured

A cable telegram was received at Victoria on Saturday from Mr Jackson of the firm of Drake & Jackson, who is at present in London, to the effect that the London press including the Times, had taken up the cause of British Columbia and contained severe articles censuring the conduct of the Dominion government in its treatment of British Columbia in the railway matter

Two men—a white man named Thomas Ponton or Ponting and a half breed named Johnny Napoleon—left New Westminster for the North Arm settlement on Saturday the 13th inst, and are still missing They were in a small skiff which was calculated to carry only one man, and both are said to have been under the influence of liquor when they started and it is also said that they had some bottles with them There can be little doubt they met a watery grave

A SUCCESSFUL FIGHT WITH A SNAKE—Horace Shipley near Mount Vernon Pa had an encounter with a snake last week He saw the snake in the field where he was at work and attempted to kill it with a fence stake As he raised the stake the snake darted at him and coiled itself around his legs He reached in his pocket for his knife, it was not there and no stick or stone within his reach, while the snake was coiled so tightly around his legs that he could not walk He threw himself upon the ground and rolled over and over until he reached some stones, when he smashed its head with one blow It was a black snake and measured 6 feet 8 inches in length.

With the approach of autumn there is the usual activity in commercial circles here as elsewhere but up to the present time it has been mostly of a preparatory character The lateness of harvest has kept other branches of business back correspondingly and hence we find that there has been ample time for all to get ready for the business that is to come There is not much impatience however at the delay except perhaps on the part of those whose business it is to furnish the money to move the grain crop and taking the funds lying idle they make some complaint of the slowness with which things progress.

The demand from other sources than the breadstuff trade is not extreme and capitalists are furnishing funds through the banks and other sources on quite as liberal terms as have prevailed in our market at any prior period in the commercial history of the State

By the novel decree issued by the Argentine government the following value is to be placed upon foreign gold and silver coin should any find its way to that country The sovereign (British) has been reduced in value from $4 90 to $4 88 the gold ounce or doubloon from $16 to $15 7 the Napoleon (French) from $3 90 to $3 87 20 milreis (Brazilian) from $11 to $10 90½ the condor (Chilean) from $9 25 to $9 15 etc. while the American eagle which was $10 is now raised to $10 03 It is gratifying to know that the coin bearing the name of our national bird while scoffed at in some sections of our own country, is duly appreciated in others

The Grain Market.

The fact that a strictly agricultural paper, as is the California Farmer should advise grain growers to sell their wheat when prices are ruling as low as now is something unusual That paper, however, having gathered statistics from all quarters regarding the probable supply and demand says

Let our grain growers carefully read the condition of the growing crops all over Europe and note also that the present month August is the time that settles the fate of the English crops and we think every wise grain-grower and grain holder must realize the good ground we have for believing that the markets cannot possibly rule higher this year, unless there should occur more cause for war than [illegible] justify now Therefore, we reiterate our oft-expressed opinion that it is better for our grain-growers to sell their wheat now

The following table is also given showing the amount of wheat which has been pouring into the wheat markets of England only, during the last six months—and also the amount during the same period of 1875

	Cwts. 1875	Cwts. 1876.
Russia	3,804 880	3 410,241
Denmark	71 235	248,075
Germany	2,029 830	2 6‥0 174
France	258 771	203,505
Turkey Wallachia and Moldavia	348 514	824 472
Egypt	183 616	898,278
United States	11 099 066	10 478 803
Chili	811 047	412 774
British India	118 746	1,166,358
British North America	582 008	550 889
Other countries	178,711	1,358 720
Total	18,984,424	21,700 909

While we are not of the belief that "prices cannot possibly rule higher this year, there is no good reason with the data at hand, to believe that there will be a permanent advance to such a figure as will justify parties to pay interest on money and hold their wheat.' The figures given by the Farmer are at least valuable, whether the advice be so regarded or not.

Miscellaneous

A new ship, the Adam M. Simpson is now being built at Bath, Maine, by Goss & Sawyer, for Philadelphia parties, and is intended for the Pacific trade.

The cheap rate at which railroads can now be constructed in comparison with the cost of those built a few years since is causing some uneasiness among those owning stock in the latter, This reduction in expense, taken in connection with the rapid increase of narrow gauge roads must seriously affect the value of a great deal of railroad property. An instance of the reduction in cost above mentioned is furnished by the Columbus and Toledo railroad—a wide gauge road, with first-class grade, alignment, rails, etc., and with the rails one-half steel. This road is now approaching completion at a cost of $15 000 per mile

The potato crop in Oregon, which it was thought would fall greatly below an average this year is turning out well, and the yield, it is now believed will be fully up to former years.

Domestic Produce.

So far this week there has been rather more activity in the local wheat market and a growing disposition of rather more readiness to sell has been manifested The ruling quotations, however, have not been changed, Receipts from up the Columbia are kept up, while those from this valley are considerably increased A good deal of, that coming forward is either for storage or sent hither to be sold on commission These receipts are generally in small lots, the rule observed among farmers being generally to sell immediately only sufficient to enable them to meet present obligations and await the result of further investigations of and developments in the market. The bulk of the surplus in this valley it is thought, will not be sold for months yet, nor will there be any rush of the cereal to market, unless an unexpected and important advance should occur Flour is in tolerably fair supply, and we learn that some of the State mills which have been shut down for a time, or only been grinding enough to supply their local trade will soon begin to grind steadily on the new wheat crop. There is a rather downward tendency in the market for oats, mill feed and hay, the supply being somewhat better and a diminished demand for export. Potatoes are offering freely and dealers are well furnished with all they can place, it is believed prices will go still lower The demand for provisions and dairy products is confined mainly to choice qualities, inferior articles in this line being in over supply Wool, hides and peltry are not in so large receipt as last week, though a good deal of wool is yet coming forward and finds a firm market at quoted rates.

Game, fish, fruits and vegetables are abundant and the trade in these seasonable commodities is more active than usual, though prices are low The local consumption is reported greater than in former years

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.

600,000 Acres in

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO Grant and Baker counties and are offered for sale in such sized tracts not less than 160 acres, as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to Immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing On most of the tracts no grubbing or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite. A growth of nutritious grass covers the uplands affording the best of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and made into hay Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands or rolling lands can be put into crops with the most satisfactory returns Fruit particularly peaches plums grapes apples pears and cherries as well as the smaller fruits can be grown in great abundance. The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful. Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic. The mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section and a prosperous population is already established occupied in farming stock growing mining and various other pursuits

Terms $1 50 per acre and upwards according to quality and quantity. Interest ten per cent. on deferred payments

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation, and suitable for grain or vegetables.

946 Acres, four miles south east of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton of Salem

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes bounded by the Willamette River for four miles beautiful lake on the east boat landings all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons, or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages on more favorable terms than they can ever expect to realize again
